'Auricula Day'

Saturday 3rd May 2014 11am until 4pm – free entry

We at The Walled Nursery are delighted to welcome the Kent division of the National Auricula Society to our nursery for our very own Auricula Day.

Auriculas are one of those plants that we all get carried away with...it was once thought that Flemish Weavers fleeing religious persecution in the 1570's brought these beauties to our shores, Auriculas were seen as novelties which only the rich could afford. But not anymore!

Colin Humphries from the Kent Division of The National Auricula society will be helping us to set up a huge Auricula Theatre in our Victorian Vinery...Colin will be on hand to talk about his beautiful plants and for the fanatics among you, you can join the National Auricula Society for more news. There will also be hundreds of Auricula for sale on the day...let the fun begin!
